Free, practical classes to help set up your child for lifelong success

Every interaction with your infant or toddler counts. From playtime and chatting to reading and singing, you're helping to form the building blocks for a healthy family and developmental and educational success.

But sometimes you may not know exactly what your child needs. You're not alone.

Eight sessions, covering the topics below, can help you guide your infant or toddler's early childhood in a positive direction:

- Strengthen the bond between you and your child.
- Gain a better understanding of how your child learns.
- Learn how to improve your child's social and emotional development.
- Understand your child's behaviors and get strategies for how to manage them.
- Develop the skills needed to prepare your child for success by the time they enter kindergarten.
